MONEY

splash out

I splashed out £200 on a new dress last week.

- When was the last time you splashed out?

to spend a lot of money on buying things, especially things that are pleasant to have but that you do not need

save up

I am saving up for a trip to Thailand.

- Are you saving up for something?

to keep money so that you can buy something with it in the future:

pay back

Lend me £5, please. I will pay you back tomorrow.

- Do you always pay the money you owe back?

to pay someone the money that you owe them

get by

It's difficult to get by on my low salary.

- Do you find it easy to get by?

to be able to live usually by having just enough money you need
